Οι γυναίκες του ENIAC

Kay McNulty, Marlyn Wescoff, Fran Bilas, Ruth Lichterman, Adele Goldstine, οι πρώτες «πληροφορικόριες» του ENIAC στο πανεπιστήμιο της Pennsylvania's Moore School of Engineering! 1942-1955

Like other codebreakers during the war, Elizebeth Smith Friedman had to sign an oath promising her silence of her wartime accomplishments until death. She had to watch as J. Edgar Hoover, the FBI Director at the time, take credit for her and her team's successes. In 2008, the government declassified documents revealing Elizabeth Smith Friedman's World War II contributions in South America, as well as documents revealing the codebreaking work of other women during the war.
